EARL ROLPH

There is a bright side to everything. If it wasn't for rheumatism an old man would be a whole lot more lonesome than he is.

A princess is a party who knows more than her mother about everything except the housework.

Look before you leap and you won't be so apt to jump from the frying pan into the fire.

One half of the world is busy telling us what we must and the other half is telling us what we must not do.

It was Adam who remarked that love has no need of an overcoat.

The girl who marries some Lotherio from out of town has a better chance to convince her friends she is making a regular catch.

THE RAGGEDY EDITOR MAN

(By Lawrence D. Newberry, of the Creston Journal, with apologies to James Whitcomb Riley)

The Editor Man in our home town Is the funniest guy for miles around; He works all night and works all day,
And hustles like heck to get his pay.
His pants are patched and his shoes are thin,
And his shoulders stoop 'cause he works like sin;
Ain't he the funniest Editor Man?
The raggedy, raggedy Editor Man.

The Editor Man he works all day, Two hours for sleep and none for pay;
He hustles the news on every hand, He knocks the trusts and boosts the band.
He tells how the Jones have got some twins,
And how to make jam from potato skins;
Ain't he the funniest Editor Man?
The raggedy, raggedy Editor Man.

He tells us when Pete Smith's old cow died,
And who won the prize baking apple pies;
He heralds the fact of each one's birth,
And praises their lives when they leave this earth.
But he daren't tell when you beat your wife, Or chase her out with a carving knife;
Ain't he the funniest Editor Man?
The raggedy, raggedy Editor Man.

Jim Hill got married to Widow Brown,
And invited everybody else in town; Then Jim came around with a cheap cigar,
And says, "You know how swell we are;
So give us a write-up, good and strong,
And make it at least a column long."
And the Editor did, the funny man,
The raggedy, raggedy Editor Man.

The Editor Man, he does his best, He lauded the bride and all the rest;

Gentlemen:-

We are in receipt of the enclosed clipping which was cut from your paper and are very much interested in securing the drawings from which these illustrations were made.

Will you be good enough to let us know if you have the same and if we could secure them from you -- and if not whether you know from whom we could procure these.

We note also it states there is a fourth one which does not appear here. We should greatly appreciate having this.

Thanking you in advance for your early reply, we are,

Very truly yours,

Dainty Ways of Serving Ice Cream in the Home

"Dixie" Ice Cream will save the housewife many anxious moments in thinking about the dessert problem, for instance our Vanilla Cream in combination with Chocolate Sauce, hot or cold, is exceptionally tasty, and almost everyone would be delighted with it.

Many other dainty and attractive desserts can be made of "Dixie" Ice Cream including the new idea "Grape Juice Sundae" served with any standard grape juice, and the old reliable Pie a-la-mode—surely these desserts will make an exceedingly strong appeal to the woman in the home.

But he didn't know how he had transgressed
When he didn't tell just how Jim was dressed.
But the next day Jim came down the street, Saying, "Now ain't that a heluva sheet."
Ain't he the funniest Editor Man?
The raggedy, raggedy Editor Man.

The Editor Man to Heaven will go, 'Cause he's had enough hell on this earth below;
And it wouldn't be a fair thing to do To roast him on earth and Eternity too.
The raggedy, raggedy Editor Man
Ain't he the funniest Editor Man?
But every night he says a prayer—"Oh, God, don't make me an Editor there."

ANOTHER TRIUMPH FOR THE LIBERTY MOTOR

Ford-built Liberty Motors carried the four army airplanes which on October 20 completed the 9,000-mile journey from Mitchell Field, Long Island, to Nome, Alaska, and return.
The fleet was greeted over New York City by a flotilla of forty army planes which escorted it to Minneola. The returning planes touched their wheels to earth at 3:15 in the afternoon.

The Alaskan Flying Expedition, commanded by Captain St. Clair Street, undertook the journey to demonstrate the durability of modern airplanes and motors, and to effect the establishment of an aerial route to the Northwestern corner of the American Continent and Asia.
Such a route would bring mail from Alaska to the states in two or three days, whereas the present method of transportation requires thirty days.

"Talk about service," said Captain Street. "Those planes and motors sure stood up. Why, the only trouble we had on the entire trip was caused by the worst bit of weather I've ever flown through or want to fly through. We had everything—rain, snow, hail, sleet, clouds, fog, and mist. We kept right on flying."

"The 230 miles of glaciers we traversed was a wonderful sight, but there would have been little hope for rescue had we cracked up in that wilderness. Although it was a rough trip I never want to fly through such weather again, but the planes stood it magnificently. Instead of battered hulks, flogging to earth after winded flights, they looked brand new. Even the turn-buckles were polished and the motors looked as if they had just come off the testing block."

"We never changed a spark plug.
Never a cylinder missed on us the entire trip. The motors are in as good condition today as when we set out."

Before the flight, all the pilots asked for ships equipped with Ford-made Liberty Motors.

Due to the nature of the work which engaged the expedition the fleet required a period of three months to complete the trip. Since all of the original motors completed the journey without repairs or replacements this is believed to be a record for aerial navigation. It will be recalled that during the war it was generally the practice to overhaul all airplane motors after approximately each twenty-four hours of flight.

This is the second notable event in which Ford Liberty Motors have figured prominently, the first being the trans-Continental jump of the Ford Liberty-equipped N C 4, a feat which commanded world-wide interest.

It takes a fool longer to tell you what he doesn't know than it does a wise man to tell you what he does know.

The devil is still trading deadly apples of forbidden pleasures for Edens of Innocence.

And you are doggone lucky these days if you can manage to make one end meet.

About the only time a woman listens quietly is when she is at a keyhole.

To say that a rolling stone gathers no moss is usually the argument of an old mossback.

Some people are so stubborn and so contrary that you can only convince them that they are wrong by agreeing with them.

Some people are always looking for an opportunity to applaud an adventurer and an opportunity to abuse an honorable and useful man.
